London, June 14 -- A curious story is times with the whip and let out a link or being circulated regarding the Duke of Somerset and the king at the last court. Glen Water essayed to take the lead When his majesty made the rounds of the majesty, without acknowledging the obeland Duchess of Somerset say it certainly tion of again attending the court. Considering that London's streets are alrendy bedecked for the coronation with festoons, flags and arches, badly draggled by rain it is little wonder that the king fills the stage. At the dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Choate it had been the custom of those meeting their majesties at privat houses to "kiss hands," but his majest; sent special word that he desired that this ceremony be not observed when he set foot on American soll, which Mr. Choate's house is supposed to be.

The omission created much comong the English guests, but it was no small relief to the Americans. Howeve society had already had some warning the king's desire, for at Epsom he had word passed around that he did not desire any public hand kissing in the enclosure, which has been a sight for all derby day crowds. One very fashionable woman disregarding the informal injunction grabbed his majestys hand and kissed it. much to the king's embarrassment

The relations between King Edward and wants Lord Salisbury to dissolve parlia ment after the coronation and "go to Democrats the country," otherwise have a general on why the government should not reap the fruits of the recent victory for the pext few years. The king, on the other hand, and he is supposed in this to be much influenced by Lord Roseberry, believes in the ancient custom that the death of the sovereign involves a disco ution of parliament. King Edward is the first sovereign whose succession has not been followed by a mechanical dissolution. The king is understood to take the standpoint that this is not his parliament, t having been elected before his accesion and apart from any parliament prejudices, he wishes to feel that the h of commons has been elected by the peode under his rule according to all preedent. So strongly has this report gained ground that the party organizations are already taking steps tentatively to select cardidates for the various seats, though even the highest officials seem to have no Cofinite bles of how the struggic between the aged premier and the new
